

FEM opened its doors again!

Today, once again, applicants and their parents within the Open Day had the opportunity to communicate with the management and students of the university, and continue communicating with representatives of those faculties to which they have the greatest interest. Such an opportunity was made by those who seek to connect their lives with the Faculty of Economics and Management, kindly uttered their doors in front of them! A lively conversation, answers to numerous questions and simply relaxed communication – this is what today's two-hour meeting will be remembered by all its participants!
